

Examiners found that servicers engaged in deceptive acts or practices when they represented to consumers with parent PLUS loans that they were not eligible for IDR or PSLF. In fact, parent PLUS loans may be eligible for IDR and PSLF if they are consolidated into a Direct Consolidation Loan. These representations were likely to cause reasonable borrowers considering IDR or PSLF for Parent PLUS loans to forgo taking any future steps to pursue those programs. Examiners directed servicers to improve policies and procedures, enhance training, and improve monitoring to prevent future violations.

5. Conclusion

The Bureau will continue to supervise student loan servicers and lenders within its supervisory jurisdiction—regardless of the institution type. Supervisory Highlights can aid these entities in their efforts to comply with Federal consumer financial law and manage compliance risks. This report shares information regarding general supervisory findings, observations related to the recent transfer of millions of federally owned student loan accounts, and violations of the Consumer Financial Protection Act's prohibition on unfair, deceptive, and abusive acts or practices.

The Bureau recommends that market participants—student loan servicers, originators, and loan holders—review these findings and implement changes within their own operations to ensure that these risks are thoroughly addressed. The Bureau expects institutions to incorporate measures to avoid these violations and similar consumer risks into internal monitoring and audit practices. Robust compliance programs seek to eliminate the problematic practices described in Supervisory Highlights while ensuring that consumers receive complete remediation for any past errors. Evidence of strong compliance programs that take these steps is a factor in the Bureau's risk-based supervision program and tool choice decisions, including decisions on whether or not to open follow-up enforcement investigations. The Bureau expects institutions to self-identify violations and compliance risks, proactively provide complete remediation to all affected consumers, and report those actions to Supervision. Regardless, where the Bureau identifies violations of Federal consumer financial law, it intends to continue to exercise all of its authorities to ensure that servicers and loan holders make consumers whole.

Director, Consumer Financial Protection Bureau.
